

Practice Grant Application

Practice Grant Overview: The Practice Grant seeks to open access and expand approaches to landscape architecture and design by funding individuals and groups committed to alternative land-based* practices.

Our primary selection criteria include a demonstration of feasibility, a clear method or practice, a committed client or partner, and an available project site. We are looking for applied research and design ideas that are ready to go and need additional funding to be realized. Applications are reviewed by a Selection Jury of academics, practitioners, and experts in the nonprofit world. The Selection Jury will give careful consideration to methods of installation, maintenance, management, materials, potential community impact and team structures that represent alternative practices.

One of primary objectives of the Practice Grant is to develop a more expansive and inclusive community of landscape designers, cultivators and builders through this opportunity to fund work by individuals and groups currently outside of conventional professional practice. With this in mind, please reach out with any questions; we are happy to discuss your application and are open to considering substitutions to application requirements. We provide support through all phases, including the application.

Land-based practices include any applied efforts that are tied to the land itself, from landscape architecture to ecology, planning, gardening, farming, arboriculture, and conservation. To practice is to repeat, to do, to act. It encompasses action and embraces momentum.*
